Dear Hal,

The paperback edition of "Case Closed" is odd. Book An Anchor/Doubleday published with the permission of ~~Random~~ RANDOM House.

There is a new four page introduction in which he writes of you - "Harold Weisberg one of the deans of the conspiracy press, found his first publisher (He had previously self published six conspiracy books)" ---- .

How can Doubleday editors miss that

A.C.I. AC136

I'm no lawyer but this seems slanderous. "His books suck - no body should publish them." That is the implication. Why didn't a checker or editor catch this?

It leaves me with questions about this book.

Let me know how Doubleday responds.

Always,

Ed
